

PEACE THOUGHTS

The saints are our brothers and sisters, calling us to become like them.

Henri Nouwen

'The Saints are not supermen or superwomen, nor were they born perfect. They are like us, like each one of us.
They are people who, before reaching the glory of heaven, lived normal lives with joys and sorrows, struggles and hopes.

What changed their lives? When they recognized God's love, they followed it with all their heart without reserve or hypocrisy.
They spent their lives serving others; they endured suffering and adversity without hatred and responded to evil with good, spreading joy and peace. This is the life of a saint.'

'God calls everyone to holiness and gives all the baptized what they need to become saints, but God does not impose it.'
'God gives everyone the freedom to follow the example of Jesus, to discern and accept God's plan, to treat others the way God would and to place themselves at the service of others with an ever more universal charity, open and addressed to all.'

Pope Francis

GOSPEL THOUGHTS: Matt 12: 1-12

Do we know people who are thoughtful and care for others as well themselves? Did we know family members who were gentle and bore suffering in silent service of us; their family?
Who are the honest peacemakers in our lives?

These are the Saints we are familiar with and the saints remembered on this great feast day. Lots of them are the sealed, marked, ones, noticed by angels and signed with the cross at their baptism.

Knowing these people, we remember with joy the love and creativity of the Creator that shone through them for our benefit. It is now our turn to be true to the mark of our baptism that calls us to be like Christ, among others .

REMEMBERED...during Mass

Janet Kinsella, Marianne Nottingham, Noel McKinney, Gaynor Kennedy, John Johnson.

Please keep these families in your prayers.
